

GOD IS SENDING YOU – Bible study can be a powerful vehicle for the Holy Spirit to move in people’s lives. You can be part of bringing revival to your campus as you lead your friends in Bible study and send them out to start studies for their friends in every corner of campus.

Influence – Who do you know and how is God asking you to influence them?

- Make a list or draw a diagram of every contact you have on campus, how you are connected to them, and how they are connected to one another.
- Note those with whom you have had a spiritual conversation, those who are potential partners in the mission, and those you want to invite to follow Jesus.
- Pray daily for the people God has put in your life, and ask the Holy Spirit to lead you as you seek to influence them.
- Add to your list or diagram as you meet new people and get to know them.

Gather – When and where will you meet, and who will you invite?

- Choose a meeting place that allows for good conversation.
- Invite your friends to join you. Challenge Christian friends that this is a chance to grow in their faith on campus, and welcome non-Christian friends to come join the group and investigate Jesus for themselves.
- Be persistent as you make invitations, and communicate often.

Prepare – What will you lead and how will you lead it?

- Choose a text to study, preferably a narrative passage that is 5-15 verses in length. (A good place to start is Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, or Acts.)
- Go to biblegateway.com and copy/paste the text of your passage into a document. (Recommended versions are NRSV, NIV, or ESV.)
- Double-space, leave wide margins, and remove paragraphs and section titles.
- Use the Leader’s Guide to study the text and apply it to your life.
- Then fill in the boxes on the Leader’s Guide to prepare yourself to lead others.

Host – What will God do in your group as you lead? (Be welcoming! Have fun! BRING FOOD!)

- Use the Leader’s Guide you prepared to lead your friends in the Bible study.
- If 70 minutes does not fit your timeframe, either decrease the time spent sharing observations and answering questions (to shorten the study) or spend more time answering questions, summarizing, and applying (to lengthen the study).
- Gather more friends every week, and encourage members to do the same.
- Every 3-4 weeks, give a Call to Faith to invite your friends to move forward in faith. (Read aloud from tinyurl.com/sgcall2faith until you grow familiar with leading the invitation and prayer.)

Follow Up – How will you build deeper relationship with your members?

- Spend extra time with your small group members and their friends.
- Ask them what they think of the Bible study, and invite them every week.

Multiply Yourself – Who else will God send to reach new places and new campuses?

- Lead your group members to take the same steps you did by mapping out their contacts, praying daily for them, and gathering them for Bible study.
- Identify anyone who might want to be sent out to reach their friends, invest in them, help them grow, and have your group pray for them and send them out.
